From: John Clapp

I see that there are about a dozen highly qualified nominees.

I want to put in a plug for Yildiray Yildirim, Syracuse business school and Director of their RE program. A few things make Yildiray stand out: 1.he is well connected with industry, having put together a successful Board for the RE Center; 2. He wants to participate with Weimer; 3. He has a great publication record in the RE Finance area; 4. He will be a good colleague – great to have a beer with.

I look forward to seeing everyone next week.

Professional Biography

Dr. Peng Liu, assistant professor of real estate, joined Cornell's faculty in 2007 after obtaining a PhD in finance and real estate from the Haas Business School at University of California Berkeley. While obtaining his doctoral degree, Liu taught courses in stochastic calculus, credit risk and mortgage-backed securities. His primary research focuses on asset pricing and hedging in the real estate market, with specific interests in mortgage pricing, mortgage-backed securities and commodity futures research. Prior to his career in academics, Liu worked in various industries, including engineering, advertising, consulting and hedge funds.
